"THIS STRIKE IS A BLUFF"

—Chauncey Rowe

Superintendent of the Boston Forwarding & Transportation Company Laughs at Idea That Strikers Are Winning. "We Have Called the Bluff," He Declares.

$5,000 BAIL ON SHOOTING CHARGE FOR STRIKE BREAKER

Drastic Court Action To-day on Man Alleged to Have Fired From Window of "Fort Bradley," Wounding Boy in Crowd—Municipal Authorities Take Action on Strike-Breakers' Fortress.

Councilman Edward T. J. Noonan of Ward 13 intends to introduce an order in the Common Council to oust the strike-breakers from "Fort Bradley," in Albany street.

"I am going to see if there is a law in Boston which wil protect our citizens from the menace of an armed body of thugs," said the Councilman.

"I am going to see if the laws will permit the maintaining of a 'fort,' an arsenal, a menace to the health of this city, right in its midst."

Judge Burke to-day held John J. Gaffney of New York, the strike-breaker who yesterday shot Spiros Prisnos, an innocent onlooker in the crowd which had surrounded "Fort Bradley," in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

MAYOR TO CLOSE "FORT."

"'Fort Bradley' is to be wiped out by Wednesday unless the master teamsters enforce all of the rigid requirements of the Board of Health," said Mayor John F. Fitzgerald to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter.

"This place is a menace to the public health. There is no doubt that the class of men who are usually employed to break strikes are as a rule, undesirable. Too many of them are the products of jails and have records.

"While personally I deplore this system which allows men to bring strike-breakers into our midst, and I wish that the master teamsters had been able to see the justice of the demands of the strikers and had granted their terms, they did not do so and they are allowed under the law to protect their property and their interests and Boston must see to it that the laws are respected. This headquarters of strike-breakers in Albany street must be made completely sanitary or the strike-breakers must move out."

BOSTONIANS AROUSED.

Councilman Noonan wil lask the Common Council direct the building commissioners to investigate the conditions at "Fort Bradley" and the allegations that the laws relative to fire escapes are being grossly violated at Nos. 161 to 169 Albany street.

A feeling of indignation at the lawlessness and the brazen methods of the strike-breakers who under the protection of the Boston police feel that they are defended in taunting and attacking Boston citizens is sweeping over the city.

"BREAKERS" QUIT; WORK IS HELD UP

With less than half of the original number of strike-breakers left in the ranks, the big trucking firms to-day were seriously checked in their effort to carry on business.

Fifteen strike-breakers deserted early to-day, and more are expected to leave during the day. There are now but seventy of the more than one hundred and fifty men brought here from New York left to do the work.

The riotous scenes of yesterday, in which one man was shot and several others hurt, have made the strike-breakers, already sick of their jobs, nervous and anxious to quit at the first opportunity.

Police Squad Averts Strife.

Determined that no lawlessness shall characterize this day's record, six burly policemen were early on guard at "Fort Bradley," in Albany street, and no crowd was allowed to collect. Every one was made to "move on."

The eight big trucking firms which are fighting the union were not able to get out half of the number of teams that they started from their stables each day last week.

Early to-day, under strong police protection, the strike-breakers were taken to the different stables in bunches of fifteen from "Fort Bradley."

Desertions from the ranks of the strike-breakers began early. As soon as the different squads of strike-breakers were out of sight of their headquarters many of them left and went to Brodbine Hall, the headquarters of the strikers.

Firms Put Up $1,000 Forfeits.

Archibald Mann of the New York firm of strike-breakers, Wardwell & Mann, went to No. 161 Albany street early to-day and said to the guards on the door there: "Let no one but the Board of Health enter this place, not even the Mayor or any of the Board of Aldermen."

A master teamster acquainted with every detail of the plans of the master teamsters who are trying to break the strike said to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"The master teamsters have put up forfeits of $1,000 each to hold out to the end in their war on the union. They did this before the strike began. That is why they are sticking to it. The first firm to quit must put up $1,000."

Few Teams Out To-day.

J. S. Hilliards & Sons, from their South Boston stables, to-day got out but four teams, while on Saturday they had out nine. In Cambridge they did not start out any.

Fifield, Richardson & Co. started out four teams; last week they had nine out each day. Flanders started out five to-day. They had twelve out Saturday. Johnson & Co. and the Boston Forwarding and Transportation Company had ten teams out.

From the Knight stables in Roxbury six doubles and four singles were started and two doubles and two singles from Annabel's in Charlestown. From Tutein's stables in East Boston eleven doubles and five singles were got out.

"Pocket" Non-Union Teams.

The union drivers pocketed a number of non-union teams at the New Haven freight yards off Congress street in South Boston and Patrolman Gardner was defied.

The Building Trades' section of the Central Labor Union has voted to give the striking teamsters its full moral support. At yesterday's meeting of Team Drivers' Union No. 25, in Brodbine Hall, several prominent labor leaders addressed the members. Thirty-four new teamsters were added to the rolls. The question of levying a strike assessment on the members was declared unnecessary at the present time.

BOSTON MAN TRAPS MARVIN KIDNAPPERS?

FATHER TAKES NEW HOPE IN CLUE REPORTED FROM BRIDGEPORT.

DOVER, Del., April 15.—Again revived in hopes of soon seeing his boy, Horace, who was tolen March 4, Dr. Marvin remained at one of the Dover Hotels last night awaiting developments from Bridgeport, Ct., or some other city in that State.

The hope of the doctor is based on a well authenticated message received here, to the effect that the child and his abductors were trapped. The message from Bridgeport to Dr. Marvin reads as follows:

"Got son and abductors nearly in trap. Send up detectives.

(Signed) "PERCY A. DARLING."

Darling is said to be a detective of Boston, Mass., who, with several other police officers, was hot on the trail of the boy and men having him in custody.

DENY RUMOR MAYOR IS TO BUY BASEBALL CLUB

INSIDERS SAY AMERICANS WILL NOT COME UNDER CONTROL OF ANY POLITICIAN.

Reports were rife to-day that Mayor Fitzgerald was making an effort to buy the Boston American League ball club, but those who are familiar with the inside of baseball affairs laughed at the rumors and said there wasn't a chance in the world for the Mayor to get the club even if he wanted it. The principal reason why Mr. Fitzgerald would fail in any negotiations he might open, say those who claim to know, is because the American League clubs, headed by President Johnson, would not consent to allow the Boston club to get in the hands of a politician who might use it, with a liberal use of free passes to further his own political game.

Before John I. Taylor bought the club Mayor (then Congressman) Fitzgerald came near getting control of it, but his plans failed when Mr. Johnson became aware of the situation.

There is a prevailing impression that General Taylor, father of John I. Taylor, really owns the club, but this is not so. John I. Taylor bought the club with a cash payment of one-fourth the amount of the purchase money and gave his personal notes for the balance. These notes have been taken up as they fell due with the profits of the club.

EVACUATION DAY IN MANCHURIA

LONDON, April 15.—To-day is the day on which, according to a subarticle to Article III. of the treaty of Portsmouth, the complete withdrawal of the Japanese and Russian armies in Manchuria is to take effect. This treaty, signed September 5, 1905, provided that all of Manchuria except the Liaotung Peninsular—Russia's lease of which was ceded to Japan, should be evacuated within eighteen months of the signing of the treaty.

RUSSIAN EXILE ESCAPES.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 15.—M. Krustleff, who, on January 11, 1906, was sentenced to exile, has ecaped. Krustleff was president of the executive council of the Workmen's Council.

ONE MISSING IN TRAIN WRECK FIRE

UTICA, N. Y., April 15.—A freight train, drawn by two engines, ran into a landslide on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad, near the Blossville station, early to-day. Both engines and several cars were destroyed by the fire that followed the wreck. One fireman is missing.

EDWARD TO MEET VICTOR.

ROME, April 15.—King Edward will meet King Victor Emmanuel of Italy at Gaeta next Thursday.

WALL STREET FIRM FAILS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The failure of W. L. Stow & Co. has been announced on the stock exchange.

OSBORNE HOWES'S ESTATE TO FAMILY

The will of the late Osborne Howes of Brookline was to-day filed in the Norfolk County Probate Court. Under the will the bulk of the property is left to Mrs. Grace Bartow Howes, the widow; to the two sons, Osborn and Kenneth, and to Miss Grace Howes, the daughter. Mr. Howes was secretary of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters and a well-known newspaper and magazine writer.

Thaw to Make Demand For Release on Bail; Delmas Out of Case

EVELYN TO STAY PERMANENTLY IN NEW YORK TO COMFORT HUSBAND.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Counsel for Harry K. Thaw made the definite announcement to-day that application will be made as soon as District Attorney Jerome returns from Lakeville for the release of the prisoner on bail pending his second trial. The millions of the Thaw family are back of this application, and no matter in what sum bail may be fixed it will be forthcoming. District Attorney Jerome has announced that he will fight the application, and it is not at all unlikely that Thaw may have to wait in the Tombs until his trial is begun again.

The announcement that bail would be asked for was made after a conference between Thaw and A. Russell Peabody, one of his counsel, in the Tombs to-day.

When Mr. Peabody came from the Tombs he said to AMERICAN reporter: "Thaw is in much better spirits than he has been since the conclusion of the trial. He is feeling much better than he did on Saturday. Lawyer Peabody said that Thaw would issue a statement later in the day.

Gives Peabody Jewelled Cane.

When he came out the lawyer carried a unique cane, which had been presented to him by Thaw. It is made of pelts patched together, and almost of the consistency of wood. The handle, which is of silver, is studded with pearls.

"Thaw told me," said Peabody, "that the cane had been sent to him from the prison at Yuma, Arizona. "I won't be able to use it for some time, he told me, and so I guess I had better give it to you."

Numerous inscriptions wishing the prisoner good luck and a speedy trial were on the box which contained the gift.

"I am going to stay right here in New York with Harry until he is free again," said Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw to-day.

The wife of the millionaire prisoner was very positive in her declaration that she has no intention of leaving New York, and that she will remain as the chief consoler of her husband until definite disposition is made of his case.

She has notified the Hotel Lorraine management that she will retain her present apartments permanently. She also has retained the same electric cab she has used in the past to take her to the Tombs daily.

Friends of the Thaw family said to-day that Evelyn Thaw would not depart in the least from the almost sombre attire she has worn.

Since the tragedy of last Summer Mrs. Thaw has had but one new dress made, and that was the tight-fitting little brown frock she donned after she had appeared on the witness stand. It was as simple and school-girlish as the one she wore while on the stand.

To Await Court Action.

The elder Mrs. Thaw, the Countess of Yarmouth and Mrs. George L. Carnegie have not decided what they will do in the immediate future. At a family conference to-day it was decided to await the result of lawyers' conferences and any possible court action in the next few days before making definite plans for the future.

It is understood that they will remain in New York in the event of immediate steps being taken to declare Thaw insane. Should that fail through and should Thaw be denied the privilege of giving bail, it is likely that the elder Mrs. Thaw and her daughter, Mrs. Carnegie, will go to the latter's Long Island home, to remain until the second trial is called.

Countess Soon May Sail.

It is understood that the Countess of Yarmouth is anxious to make a hurried visit to England. If she goes abroad, it is not considered likely that she will return.

The AMERICAN is able to state positively to-day that Delphin M. Delmas, the celebrated California lawyer and senior counsel for Thaw, has voluntarily and irrevocably severed his connection with the case.

Following on the heels of this announcement comes the statement from Pittsburg that Attorney John Marron, one of the leading criminal lawyers of Pennsylvania, will be Thaw's chief counsel when the case is again heard.

Harry K. Thaw was the ruling spirit of his own defence from the very hour he shot down White until the jury was finally discharged, and at all stages vehemently asserted his rights, as the defendant on trial, to dictate to his counsel the course to be pursued. He commanded them to follow his orders and brooked no interference or suggestion even from his distracted family.

Thaw's determination, his wilfulness and his unexpected battlefield orders flung at his lawyers, often jeopardized his life and strained almost to the breaking point the ill-concealed personal animosities and jealousies existing among counsel.

It is likewise true that Thaw himself caused his case to be fought out on the thin ice defence of justification under the so-called "unwritten law," and firmly believed that he would be triumphantly acquitted without the jury retiring from the box.

"WOULD MOB ADVERSE JURY."

He was firmly convinced that his defence of justification, presented principally through the awful story told by his girl wife on the witness stand, would secure his instant acquittal. He boasted on many occasions that the citizens of New York would be so enraged at any jury which should convict him that the jurors would be mobbed before they could leave the court house.

Perhaps the most astonishing revelation made to-day was the following:

When the trial was resumed after the report of the lunacy commission, Mr. Delmas, with the judgment of the commission that Thaw was sane behind him, prepared to introduce Dr. Hamilton and the other experts whom Jerome had called before the commission to prove Thaw insane. This, in the judgment of several able lawyers, would in all probability have resulted in an acquittal for Thaw. Mr. Delmas called Dr. Hamilton to the stand, and as he prepared to question him he was surprised to receive from Thaw a note on which was written the words:

"You are no longer in charge of my case."

Delmas naturally was thunderstruck, and he asked permission of the court to confer with his client, which being granted, he went back to where Thaw was sitting and asked him what the note meant.

"Am Own Chief Counsel."

"It means just what it says," he replied. "You are not going to make these men testify that I am insane. I am sane and you know it. You are no longer in charge of my case."

Mr. Delmas then asked Mr. Thaw's permission to resign from the case and Thaw refused. Under the law, Mr. Delmas knew that he could not retire from the case without the consent of Thaw and his hands were tied.

"Whom do you designate as your senior counsel, Mr. Thaw?" Delmas inquired.

"I haven't designated anybody, and I am not going to."

"What are you going to do about it, then?" inquired Delmas, perplexed.

"I want you to understand that I am the leading counsel in my own case, and I want my orders carried out," Thaw replied.

"Well, under the circumstances," Delmas replied, "I'm a good soldier: what do you want?"

"I want you to take Dr. Hamilton off the stand and begin to sum up before the jury."

Delmas attempted to reason with Thaw, but he was immovable, and thereupon announced that the defendant rested his case, and Dr. Hamilton was excused without testifying.

Mr. Gleason, who, although deposed, had not relinquished his original assignment as manager of the insanity affairs, took charge when Jerome made his aplication for a lunacy commission and over the protest of Delmas and his associates suddenly arose and put the point blank question to Hamilton whether or not he believed Thaw sane or insane, and the doctor instantly responded: "Incurably insane." This question of Gleason's was the one thing which caused the long dissension among the members of the lunacy commission, which finally adjudged Thaw sane.

Thaw Killed Own Case.

By his refusal to permit Mr. Delmas to question Dr. Hamilton and the other alienists, who had testified before the commission that he was insane, Thaw himself shut off his best avenue of acquittal.

Upon the termination of the trial Mr. Delmas's connection with the case ceased and it is stated by one very close to him that no amount of money could induce him to take any further part in the defence of the slayer of Stanford White.

POPE SCORES FRANCE FOR CHURCH WAR

ROME, April 15.—In his allocution delivered to the consistory to-day, Pope Pius referred in scathing terms to the actions of France in the fight against the Holy See over French separation law.

The Pontiff said:

"Solemnly protest against the scandalous methods which the French republic has not scrupled to resort to—measures absolutely repugnant to the noble and chivalrous spirit traditional to the nation."

MRS. M'LEAN CHEERED AS D. A. R. CHIEF

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Representatives of 65,000 Daughters of the American Revolution met to-day in Memorial Continental Hall in the sixteenth annual congress of the society.

"Sweet sixteen," is the way Mrs. Donald McLean, president-general of the society, is pleased to refer to the daughters, and it charms them all immensely. In all there were about 700 Daughters in attendance at the opening meeting, including national officers, State and vice-regents, delegates and visitors.

The opening meeting was anovation for Mrs. McLean. As she entered the hall, already well filled with the awaiting members, she was welcomed with loud applause and the waving of hundreds of handkerchiefs.

McLean Opposition Disappears.

There had been some rumors that Mrs. McLean would have opposition for re-election, but that has faded away, and her election now seems assured, possibly by a unanimous vote. This, however, does not eliminate the possibility of sufficient excitement this week to make the sessions interesting.

The election of 10 vice presidents general, a secretary and treasurer general has already developed into a McLean and anti-McLean fight, two tickets being in the field, and bulletins being issued from the respective headquarters with pleasing regularity.

Pass "Ugly" Word.

The principal campaign talk is concerning the finances of the society. The failure of the contending forces to distinguish between "stocks" and "bonds" has led to the passing of that "short and ugly word" in polite language.

For three or four years the society has been constructing Continental Hall. The by-laws will not permit the incurring of a debt, so the building is constructed dollar by dollar.

It appears that the administration invested some Continental Hall funds not immediately necessary for expenses in railroad bonds which have since declined in value.

Officers Make Denial.

Officers of the administration deny that there was any investment in stocks. The whole matter will probably be threshed out on the floor of the congress.

DENIES GUILT OF AIDING HUSBAND'S ASSASSIN

Mrs. Dickinson, Accused as Accomplice, Pleads in Court in Maine Murder Mystery.

Special to the Boston American.

HOULTON, Me., April 15.—Gazing straight at the clerk as he read the indictment charging her jointly with another of the wilful murder of her husband, Mrs. Annie Dickinson pleaded not guilty to-day when she and John E. Roberts were arraigned.

There was not a tremor in her voice and she answered in a tone that was distinctly heard in all parts of the crowded courtroom. She hesitated slightly between the two words and the "not" was the louder.

"If anything, Mrs. Dickinson was less agitated than the man who, it is charged by the prosecution, fired the shot that killed Edgar Dickinson. Roberts, or Robens as he is also known, sat hunched up in his chair in the dock, his eyes sunken deep in his head, his face sallow, his mouth half open as he riveted his gaze on the court.

In Garb of Mourning.

Once there was interruption in the examination of talesmen that Roberts might be given a glass of water. Beside him in the dock, so close that their shoulders touched, sat Mrs. Dickinson. As they took their seats Roberts half turned his back to her. All eyes in the courtroom were turned in their direction.

Mrs. Dickinson was dressed completely in black, save for the white [illegible] at the end of a heavy black veil that almost concealed her features. Her bonnet was a becoming affair that set well above her hair that is only just beginning to change its hue from brown to gray. Even that is only at the temples. She wore black gloves and a long coat trimmed with black [illegible]. Her eyes are grayish blue, eyes that show no emotion. Save for a faint tinge of color that came and went in the cheeks the woman was pale.

Maintains Her Courage.

It is the mouth that is Mrs. Dickinson's most impressive feature, not large but with full red lips and delicately curved. Mrs. Dickinson appears to be a motheryl New England housewife, one who has worked hard, perhaps, but never murmured. She has courage, when she arose to-day she breakfasted heartily on the plain but plentiful fare of the county jail, coffee, bread and butter and porridge.

"I am innocent of any knowledge of my husband's death," Mrs. Dickinson said today as she prepared to leave the county jail for the court house to face the crowds of people, who have arrived and are still coming from all parts of Aroostook county.

Closely Guarde Tongue.

"I am not going to say one word until my counsel tells me to. There is nothing I want to say, anyway. My story will be told at the proper time."

She is not anxious about the result. In her quarters at the jail she has been collected and at times smiling and almost happy, to judge by her appearance and manner.

Only one of her family is in town. Parley Dickinson, her seventeen-year-old son, arrived yesterday afternoon, but did not visit his mother. June Dickinson, the pretty daughter, whom it was supposed was the object of Juan Robens's attentions und of which the father did not approve, and the four other children, all younger, arrived to-day.

The trial will take all of a week at least. There have been fifty extra talesmen called and with the thirty of the regular panel make eighty from which to select a jury. It would not surprise those who are familiar with the case if another set of talesmen had to be called to secure the necessary twelve.

To Try for Separate Trials.

County-Attorney Eugene Holmes has summoned between sixty and seventy witnesses for the State. These include a number of residents of Smyrna Mills, the officials who arrested Robens and neighbors of the Dickinsons, who were at the scene soon after the murder was discovered.

So far as is known, Rainsford W. Shaw, former County Attorney, who will defend both of the accused, has summoned not more than half a dozen witnesses.

While Mr. Shaw will not admit the fact, it is rumored that he will make an effort to have Mrs. Dickinson and Robens tried separately.

The County Attorney expects to take up Tuesday, Wednesday and probably part of Thursday presenting the government's side of the case. It is not expected that it will be given to the jury before Saturday and it may be next week. Judge Spear will preside.

Few capital cases in Aroostook county have attracted such attention as has this. Interest is intense and the hotels are filled with those who have come to watch the proceedings.

BARGAIN SALE OF FURNITURE

It is planned to make things move fast at the Shawmut Furniture Co., Nos. 267-269 Tremont street, this week and furniture buyers of New England can hardly afford to neglect this opportunity of securing dining room furniture at ridiculously low prices.

Several hundred sideboards, dining tables and chairs that must be moved to make room for new goods that are arriving daily, have been marked to prices that command immediate attention, and those who appreciate and understand genuine values will not hesitate to investigate these offerings of the Shawmut Furniture Company.

This sale of dining room furniture will continue only for one week.

HOLD TEAMSTER ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Robert Bruce Clark, a teamster of No. 223 West Newton street, Boston, was today held in $5,000 for the Grand Jury, by Judge Bragg in the Charlestown Police Court on a charge of manslaughter in the killing of John E. Higgins, also a teamster, of No. 12 Hammond street, Somerville, in McCabe's saloon, No. 88 Cambridge Charlestown, Saturday night. He pleaded not guilty.

Clark is charged with having drawn a cotton-hook across Higgins's neck and with having punctured the jugular vein, causing death a short time later.

Witnesses testified that Clark, who wears no union button, was reproached by Higgins and called "scab" and that he then drew the hook across Higgins's neck. The men rolled on the floor in the saloon, with Clark finally on top. Higgins was removed to Barnes's drug store nearby, where he soon died. Clark was arrested by Policeman Dennis F. Reagan at his home later in the evening. The officer says that Clark admitted to him that he used the hook on Higgins.

The witnesses who testified were Joseph F. Callahan of Park street, Charlestown; Dr. Magrath, medical examiner, and McCabe's two bartenders, Charles D. McCarthy and Patrick Sullivan.

CUE CHAMPION SUTTON DRIVEN FROM FRANCE

PARIS, April 15.—Declaring that his school for billiardists is a gambling den, the French Government has expelled George Sutton, world's champion 18.2 balkline player, from the country.

Fresh from his triumphs with the cue, Sutton came here less than a month ago. His school was already running, but the prestige of his victory over Willie Hoppe a year ago in New York increased his business here to enormous proportions.

The order of expulsion follows the decree of Premier Clemenceau that unlicensed gambling houses throughout France must be closed.

Sutton has succeeded in inducing powerful friends in Paris to prevail upon Clemenceau to give him a respite of forty-eight hours. At the end of that time, it is expected, he will sail for America.

WOMAN MAKES ACCUSATION IN DEATH PUZZLE

Mrs. Fitzgerald Says Insurance People Are Making Trouble.

WANTED TO CUT POLICY

LOWELL, April 15.—Mrs. Margaret Fitzgerald, in a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day, tells her story of the mysterious death of John Green, who roomed in her house at No. 25 Kirk street and whose body was exhumed on Saturday at the order of Medical Examiner Irish.

Mrs. Fitzgerald declares that the insurance companies are trying to make trouble for her and are responsible for the exhumation of Green's body because she refused to accept part payment of the $3,000 insurance policy on the life of her brother, James Shalloo. Mrs. Fitzgerald was named as the beneficiary in the $2,000 policy carried by Green, who was reported to have died from gas poisoning.

Mrs. Matthew James, Green's sister, is positive he did not commit suicide.

Mrs. Fitzgerald was also the beneficiary in the cases of Mrs. Eliza Lane, Bridget Gourley and Michael and ames Shalloo, the last two her brothers, both of whom died of tuberculosis. Michael's insurance was small.

In her statement to-day Mrs. Fitzgerald says:

"I think the insurance companies have started up this trouble because I refused to settle with the Prudential Company in the case of my brother James's death, except in full, for the $3,000.

"I welcome an investigation into the death of John Green. It is best that the rumors should be contradicted, and I have no fears as to the outcome.

GREEN A HANDY MAN.

"Mr. Green came to my house when I lived in Bridge street a long time ago. He was a handy man about the place, and I had to have some one to do the work, so I kept him. In my present home he made himself useful in many ways. He cut the wood, sifted the ashes and tended the furnace, and I was glad of his help.

"I pay $60 a month rent here, and I have to let rooms to meet my bills. Mr. Green had a room, of which he was not careful. In time it became necessary for me to tell him to change his room, as I could not afford to have the furniture spoiled. I gave him a room in the basement of the house and he did not like it, as he said he was being kept in a 'dungeon.' He left the house, but came back later, and I gave him another room upstairs.

"The night before he died he had been drinking, and in the morning he didn't feel well. Early in the afternoon I went to his roo mand asked him if he would have something to eat. He said he was not hungry, and I told him he ought to eat something. So I brought him up some steak, some peas, potatoes and apples with whiped cream. I left the food with him and went away.

"That was the last I saw of him alive. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitney, who live in the house, discovered Green in his room at a later time, after it was found that the smell of gas was strong in the vicinity of his room.

OF GOOD DISPOSITION.

"Green was a man of good isposition. I liked him and tried in every way to help him, even to buying him clothes, but the desire for strong drink was too strong, and at times he made a lot of work for me and caused trouble upstairs where he roomed.

WORLD PEACE APOSTLES MEET IN CONGRESS

Noted Leaders Join Cry For Disarmament at New York Gathering.

SESSION OPENS TO-DAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 15.—He was a true poet who wrote "There never was separate heartbeat in all the races of men."

The test of this universal heart throb began to-day when America's first great peace congress assembled in Carnegie Hall. It will continue until the second peace congress assembled in Carnegie Hall. It will continue until the second peace congress of the world, an actual parliament of men, meets at The Hague on June 15. Then the representatives of forty-five nations will gather, pledged to the abolition of war, and to carrying forward the propaganda of universal peace.

World Deegates Present.

The congress here is international, and includes among its members some of the most distinguished men of the United States and Europe.

Andrew Carnegie is president. There are more than 1,000 American delegates, in cluding Governors of States, United States Senators and Representatives, leading financiers, industrial and commercial leaders, labor leaders, officers of the United States army and navy, clergymen—representatives in fact of almost every phase of American life.

The Emperor of Germany personally selected delegates at attend. England, France, Belgium and Holland are represented by their most distinguished statesmen, publicists and soldiers.

Divided as to Policy.

Baron d'Estournelle's de Constant, a member of the French Senate and the Hague court; Lieutenant-General F. J. L. von Loewenfeld, general adjutant of the Emperor of Germany; Baron Descamps, Minister of State of Belgium, and Maartens Holland, most famous author, and W. T. Stead are the leaders of the foreign delegations. All have been active in carrying forward the universal peace movement and they anticipate a beginning here which will have sent them very far along toward a definite result by the time the world congress meets in June.

As in all great gatherings of men, there is a division of opinion as to how the purpose on which all agree may be best achieved. There are radicals who are expected to urge, with all the earnestness they are capable of, immediate disarmament. There are, on the other hand, distinguished delegates who believe that such a move is impossible at present and who will vigorously oppose it.

Boston Man Leads Radicals.

Benjamin F. Trueblood of Boston, secretary of the American Peace Society, is one of the leaders of the radicals and it is understood to be his intention to introduce a disarmament resolution. This will be opposed by the leading American delegates and very strongly by the majority of the Europeans. The Kaiser's representative, Lieutenant General Loewenfeld, expressed generally the European view of the disarmament question when he said:

"The principal point in the problem is, who will begin? Not one of the great nations is ready to take the step which will bring about the complete disappearance of weapons and machines of war; rather they will cling to their armies and navies as something to be proud of and to admire with the enthusiasm of national honor. We in Germany are considered a warlike nation, and we are, and our army and navy are, a source of much pride to the people and to the emperor.

"Disarmament is a long way o, but the peace conference may settle numerous points that will be of benefit to all mankind."

Along Practical Lines.

One of the great results expected from the present congress, according to the leading pacificists, is to show to the world that the peace movement has ceased to be merely an ideal. It has become the life work of intensely practical men. There are idealists among them, it is true, but henceforth the steady progress of mankind toward universal peace is to be the result of business methods, business organization, capital where it is needed, in response to a universal business need. Peace no longer is merely the dream of a poet. It is a commercial necesity, an industrial necessity, as well as an ethical necessity. The appeal for universal peace now is an appeal to the common sense of nations.

It is the predominance of business men, "captains of industry," financiers and leaders in industrial movement among the delegates to the congress that emphasizes this fact.

The New York Chamber of Commerce is represented by Levi P. Morton, Marcus M. Marks and R. Fulton.

Secretary Strauss to Speak.

Oscar S. Strauss, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, is to deliver an important address. William McCarroll, president of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation; James W. Vancleave, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, St. Louis, and other representative business men from various cities, will take part in the work.

One of the most picturesque suggestions that will be brought before the congress is one which William T. Stead advocates. Mr. Stead wishes to head a pilgrimage to the various capitals of Europe to arouse interest of the people as well as of governments in the peace movement. In explanation of this purpose he said:

Stead Urges Pilgrimage.

"Whether the coming conference at The Hague will achieve results worthy of the first parliament of man than ever assembled on this planet depends chiefly upon the popular enthusiasm that can be aroused among the peoples of America and Europe. As the simplest and most effective method of arousing that popular interest I have suggested an international pilgrimage of international men and women. And it should start from the new world and appeal to the people and governments of Europe to make the most of this unique opportunity to achieve something practical for universal peace."

PLAN FIGHT TO SAVE LIFE OF BOY AVENGER

Friends of Victim of Shooting Rush to Aid of Widow and Orphans.

TELLS DEMAND FOR MONEY

The lawyers who will defend Tony DeSimone, who because of his sister's wrong, shot and killed Leonardo Gaetani on Hollis street Tuesday night, began today to prepare the case which will be offered when the young man is placed on trial Thursday.

The prisoner spent much of his time to-day reading a Bible in his cell in the Charles Street Jail.

The friends of Gaetani have determined to assist the prosecution in every way they can. They take this course partly because of their strong sympathy for the widow and the five children who were left fatherless by the shot that DeSimone fired.

Friends Come to Aid.

Mrs. Gaetani is still suffering from illness brought on by the tragedy. She and her children are visited daily by many friends of her husband, all of whom feel a great interest in her case.

It is expected that the widow will be a witness of importance in this case.

She has already declared that her husband had told her of his friendship with Louisa DeSimone, the young woman because of whom he was killed last Tuesday.

Mrs. Gaetani says that her husband received letters from this young woman and that the girl made a scene at his place of business after her child died.

Receipt for Marriage Price.

Mrs. Gaetani says that there is in existence a receipt signed by Louisa DeSimone acknowledging the receipt of $100 in consideration for her marriage to Orizia De-Lucca. This paper and others will be introduced at the trial.

Mrs. Gaetani has told the lawyers for the prosecution that her husband received so many demands for money from Louisa DeSimone that he was unable to comply with them all.

Mrs. Gaetani says:

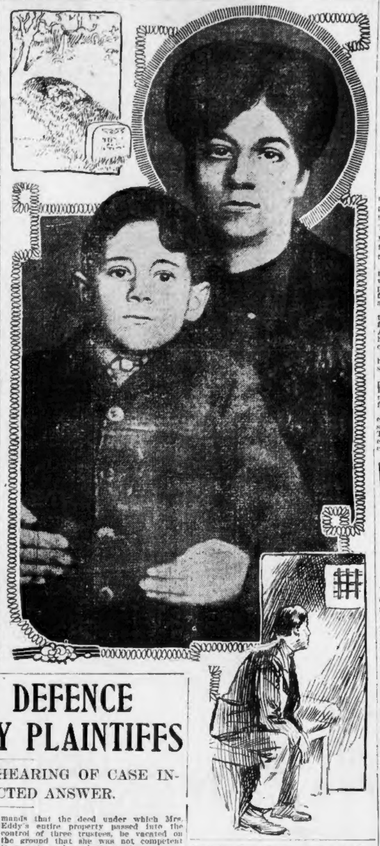
Tells Demands for Money.

"The girl wrote to him for money continually, and he gave her all he could. But he had me and our five children to take care of, and sometimes it was very difficult for him to do as much with his money as he wanted to.

"Business was bad sometimes, but the demands for money made by the girl never ceased. My husband did all that he could for her and through it all he kept telling me that I was the only woman that he really loved and I kept on believing him."

WIDOWED BY YOUTHFUL AVENGER.

Mrs. Gaetani and one of several fatherless children impoverished by tragic death of accused father.



SURPRISE BY DEFENCE FOR EDDY PLAINTIFFS

DEMAND IMMEDIATE HEARING OF CASE INSTEAD OF EXPECTED ANSWER.

CONCORD, N. H., April 15.—Surprising the plaintiffs in the suit for an accounting of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy's property with a motion for a speedy hearing is the line that is expected to be followed to-day by the defence when the case comes up in court. It is now a possibility that all litigation in the famous suit will end this week.

A motion was not anticipated. It was generally supposed to-morrow's entry would be in the form of an answer to the additional bill of the relatives, which demands that the deed under which Mrs. Eddy's entire property passed into the control of three trustees, be vacated on the ground that she was not competent to execute such an instrument.

Attorney-General Eastman, counsel for some of the New Hampshire defendants was in conference with General Streeter for a long time Saturday. Yesterday afternoon General Streeter held another conference. It was attended by Trustees Fernald and Baker and lasted several hours.

All that General Streeter said was that he was to file a paper to-day, and that until it had been entered he was not in a position to disclose it.

RUSSIAN GIRL LOST IN LYNN

LYNN, April 15.—Bearing a tag marked "East Lynn, Ct.," which had evidently been mistaken by the New York immigration authorities for Lynn, Mass., Anna Loska, a sixteen-year-old immigrant girl, was rescued from a curious crowd on Central avenue, Lynn, yesterday.

The girl was seen wandering on the street crying. This fact and her fantastic dress, bright-colored shawl and long-legged, heavy Russian boots attracted a crowd of people, who eyed her curiously.

Finally she showed a card on which was written "Andrew Miller, East Lynn, Ct."

The police decided that she had been sent to Lynn by mistake and that her destination was East Lynn, Ct.

She spent the night in the police station. An official from the Boston Immigration Bureau will take charge of her to-day.

MOST GIRLS UNFIT TO WED

—REV. M. C. PETERS.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Dr. Madison C. Peters, in his sermon yesterday morning at Majestic Theatre on "The Kind of Woman to Marry," said:

"Many men think they are self-made who are really only marriage-made. Don't marry for beauty alone. Look well to the temper of the woman you think of marrying. Marry a good housekeeper.

"The greatest defect in our social system is the aimless way girls are brought up. The majority of them are prepared in neither body nor mind for the lofty duties and serious responsibilities which marriage implies.

"Let our girls be brought up to have regular daily domestic duties; let idleness be forbidden them and let every woman be clothed with the dignity of a useful life."

PARSONS GAINS, SAY DOCTORS

Encouraging reports of the improvement of Professor Frank Parsons of Boston University, noted social economist, were given out by the physicians at the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital to-day. The professor is still weak, but the doctors now hold forth every hope for a speedy recovery.

OPERATE ON HYPNOTIZED AGED WOMAN

Remarkable Surgery Performed at a Vermont Hospital Without Pain.

FEELS NO ILL EFFECTS

Special to the Boston American.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., April 15.—An operation unique in the history of surgery was performed at the Lynch Hospital last week by the head physician, Dr. E. R. Lynch. The patient was a woman over seventy years of age, and the operation was performed for the removal of a cancerous tumor from the back of the woman's hand.

Prescelle, the hypnotist, was in town and together the physician and hypnotist worked. The patient consented to the experiment, and she was placed under the influence of hypnotic power instead of an anesthetic.

After the hypnotist had succeeded in controlling the patient, he gave permission for the surgeon to proceed with his work. An incision was made in the back of the hand nearly two inches in length, and the cancer removed bit by bit.

All this time her mind was kept occupied by the hypnotist, and she experienced no sense of pain whatsoever.

Dr. Lynch describes the condition of the patient as if in profound anesthesia, and Prescelle states that he kept the patient's mind so occupied that she was unable to feel the pain.

After the operation the patient felt no ill effects as when an anesthetic is used, and since that time has been recovering rapidly. The operation was performed in the presence of several other doctors and a large class of students and nurses.

WOMEN ARE UNRELIGIOUS

—FR. VAUGHAN.

LONDON, April 15.—Father Barnard Vaughan, the chastiser of the sins of society, discussing Justice Plowden's statement that woman's nature is undergoing very considerable qualifications and not for the better, said one thing was certain: Women were daily becoming not only less religious, but more unreligious. The danger was that owing to the entente cordiale they may become like some of their French sisters, irreligious.

Archdeacon Sinclair of London ascribed the degeneracy of women chiefly to drinking, especially secret drinking.

FISH SCARCE, PRICES HIGH

Fish was scarce at T wharf to-day, and prices were high. Fishermen, however, look for good catches from now on, owing to the weather clearing. It was reported that Skipper Wallace of the schooner Ingomar of Gloucester arrived in New York yesterday with 28,000 fresh mackerel, the cargo bringing $3,000. This gives the fishermen hope that mackerel fishing will be plentiful and the price will drop. Mackerel in medium size, wholesale, are now bringing twenty cents apiece.

ELECT YOUNGEST CLUB PRESIDENT

James B. Dealy, who was elected president of the East Boston Catholic Literary Association yesterday, to-day received many congratulations because he is the youngest president the organization has ever had. He is only twenty-three years old. He is employed by Hornblower & Weeks, brokers, and is a graduate of the Star of the Sea school and the Boston Latin school.

BRANDS BRIDGE WHIST AS "CHRISTIANS'" GAMBLING

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson Flays People Who Give Way to Mania of Stock Speculation.

"Bridge whist," said Rev. Herbert S. Johnson in his sermon at the Warren Street Baptist Church last night, "is the one form of gambling where Christians may fleece their neighbors and feel easy in their consciences."

Rev. Mr. Johnson's discourse included a scathing condemnation of stock gambling. He said:

"In the last few weeks, since the stock market panic, I've seen more men cry than I ever did before in my life. And you all know it's an awful thing to see a strong man sob and cry. I have heard the stories of many men and women who have lost money. Women almost always lose.

"Women who would jump in fright at a mouse go into wildcat copper speculation.

Some Deacons Bitten.

"I am of the opinion that more people lost in the recent panic than in any previous panic. Some of those who lost are deacons, though none belong to this church, I am glad to say.

"As a result of the panic many people in New York will move from back streets to Fifth avenue. I know one of these men who recently bought $128,000 worth of jewelry.

"I've changed my mind about the stability of even the railroad securities. Don't those who own them know they are like running water or shifting sand?

Would Wash Windows.

"A short time ago I had a great big man come to my study in this church. He told me he had lost $40,000 in the last few weeks; all the money he had.

"He said he did not want money, but work, and was willing to wash windows.

"A young man came to my home and cried and made such a noise in my parlor I thought he would disturb the whole house.

"He told me he had taken his mother's money and used it to speculate with and lost it all. A few days later this young man shot himself."

RICH LASHED BY MORGAN RECTOR

NEW YORK, April 15.—A denunciation of Wall street as the "black street," with its "gamblers" menacing the government and the sanctity of the home, and a condemnation of the business methods of one of its leading exponents, were features of a sermon by the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, pastor of St. George's Episcopal Church, Stuyvesant square, yesterday.

J. P. Morgan is a communicant of St. George's Church.

Rev. Mr. Birckhead, referring to the millionaires who try to insure their memories after death by leaving generous legacies to educational institutions, called it "one of the most damnable elements of American life." He concluded by saying:

"Thank God, the market is not planning the future of the United States."

BELATED LINER STORM LASHED

NEW YORK, April 15.—Two days overdue, with many of her guard rails loosened and splintered, the steamship Cedric arrived in port to-day, her large number of cabin passengers glad the tempestuous trip was at an end.

Almost from the beginning of the voyage she met with seas that swept over her. Large volumes of water poured into the handsome smoking room and drenched its costly furnishings and then spread to the alleys and down the companionways to the heart of the ship.

ECKELS, BANK HEAD, IS DEAD

CHICAGO, April 15.—James H. Eckels, president of the Commercial National Bank, and formerly comptroller of the currency under President Cleveland, died yesterday of heart disease.

$100,000 FIRE AT HACKENSACK, N. J.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 15.—The Second Reformed Church of this town, together with its chapel and a row of five nearby barns on Main and State streets, were burned to the ground to-day. The loss will probably amount to $100,000.

FIREBUG SETS $20,000 BLAZE

LOWELL, April 15.—By what the police believe to have been an incendiary fire, two large storehouses owned by the Jeremiah Clark Machinery Company were destroyed last night, and the firemen had to work hard to save the naphtha and oil tanks of the Lowell Gas Corporation. The loss is $20,000. Several horses were saved from suffocation by firemen from a barn owned by the gas corporation.

RUTHENIANS TO GET A BISHOP

ROME, April 5.—Pope Pius X. announces at to-day's consistory the nomination of Stephen Setere Brtynsky as bishop of the Ruthenian Catholics in the United States.

The Congregation of the Propaganda recently decided to grant the claims of the Ruthenian Catholics in the United States for a bishop. The prelate is a member of the Ruthenian Order of Basilians, and will be named as titular bishop of Daulis (Greece), with the mission to assist the Ruthenian Catholics throughout the United States.

SUICIDE SMOKED AWAITING DEATH

Learn to Pay as You Go

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONE of the saddest things about poverty is that people are ashamed of it.

Just why this should be so it is hard to tell. Although there are endless discomforts attached to poverty, there is certainly no disgrace.

In fact, if the truth were known, the rich neighbor has frequently more cause for shame than the poor man next door.

It is false pride that makes us ashamed of wearing shabby clothes and of the phrase "I can't afford to."

The struggle to keep up appearances and live beyond her husband's means has led many a woman into foolish extravagance.

It is hard for a mother to see the children of her neighbor decked out in gorgeousness that she fondly believes would be far more becoming to her own darlings.

And sometimes—though she knows she ought not to do it—she cannot resist the temptation of buying clothes for them which cost much more than her slender purse can afford.

Wrong Notions

SHE sees new furniture going in next door, and her heart burns with envy, and before long she adds a piece of furniture or bric-a-brac to her own parlor.

She often does things that she can ill afford to simply because she cannot bring herself to say, "I cannot afford it." She looks on poverty as a disgrace.

As long as she is doing her duty by her husband, children and home a woman has nothing to be ashamed of.

If her children are dressed neatly it makes no difference how plain their garments are.

I think that some of the women who are struggling to dress their children grandly would be amazed if they could see the plainness with which many of the children of the very rich are dressed. A sensible mother does not want to fill her little daughter's mind with false ideas as to the importance of dress.

Of course, every woman wants her home to be pretty and attractive, but is a piano lamp worth an added wrinkle of care on a hard-working husband's brow?

Is No Disgrace

IF your husband is honest and temperate never be ashamed of his poverty, but do your best to help him out of it by frugal management. The more economical you are now the more comfortable you will be in your old age.

Mismanagement is often the basis of poverty.

No man can ever be anything but poor if he is handicapped by an extravagant wife.

When your neighbor invites you to join her in some expedition which you know you can't afford don't be ashamed to say so.

Your children can be just as attractive as hers, even if they do not wear such fine clothes.

Sweetness and modesty are what make a child lovable. Don't try to keep up appearances at the sacrifice of peace and duty.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

A TOOTH powder containing camphor sweetens the breath.

Two drachms of boracic acid to one pint of water is one of the simplest and best eye washes.

Pure beeswax is an excellent thing for temporarily filling an aching tooth that has a cavity.

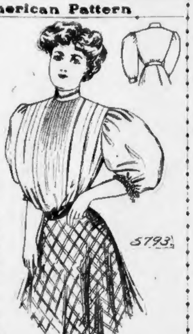
In severe paroxysms of coughing a teaspoonful of glycerine in hot milk or cream will give speedy relief.

THE NAIL-BITING HABIT

THIS should be conquered at all costs. Gloves should be worn whenever possible, and when not possible, a little bitter aloes should be applied to the tips of the fingers. The unpleasant taste will remind the person addicted to the habit of what she is doing and of the resolution she has made to break herself of the unpleasant habit.

The Boston American Pattern

A MODISH BLOUSE WAIST



No. 5,793—A shirt waist of unusual becomingness is shown in this smart model developed in white linen. It has a certain amount of style about it, without being too elaborate. Three wide tucks on each side of the front and a group of small tucks in the centre give a graceful amount of fulness that blouses slightly in the front. The sleeves may be in the regulation shirt-waist style or in the modish elbow length. For linen, silk or any of the shirt-waist materials the design is in excellent style, and requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch material for 36 inches bust measure.

No. 5,793—Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents and the size, name and address to the BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 230, Boston, Mass., allowing one week for delivery.

CLEVER HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS MAKE AND DESIGN THEIR OWN DRESSES

Brookline Misses Learn Art of Sewing

WHAT is to become of the dressmakers of the future if the girls of the United States all follow the example set by the girls of the Brookline Manual Training High School and make their own dresses?

Will the new woman add that of dressmaking to her already multitudinous repertoire of accomplishments?

But the girls of the Brookline Manual Training High School do more than make their own dresses, they even plan them in their minds and then design them and make their own patterns before they finally buy the fabrics, cut them out and stitch them together into beautiful modish gowns in which they all look so charming.

So famous have the self-made gowns of the Brookline Training schoolgirls become that samples of their handiwork have been sought as an exhibit by the authorities of the Tri-Centennial Exposition to be given this Summer in Jamestown, and even now the industrious girls, after having made all the dresses which they will need for themselves, have made and are shipping to Jamestown specimens of the practical and beautiful work which they have learned to do in the Brookline school.

Among the girls who have been most active in working for the success of this exhibit, which is to show the other girls of the country how they can fashion and make stunning gowns for themselves, are Misses Margaret Scanlon, Marion Jacobs, Annie McCue, Katherine Johnson, Mary Clark, Clair Stevenson, Ness, Mory, Kelly, Collins and Gregory.

Miss A. M. Schwindt, the chief instructress in the girls' department of the training school in Brookline, is justly proud of her well-dressed pupils, every one of whom is wearing dresses which they made themselves as the result of the practical instructions which they have had in Brookline.

Miss Schwindt received her education in Germany, Italy and Switzerland, as well as a course in the United States. She feels that her honors for the wonderful success which the Brookline girls are making as designers, fashioners and makers of their own beautiful dresses are shared by Miss Wier, teacher of drawing and color work, who has taught her pupils how to draw their own designs and how to blend the most perfect color schemes.

While the girls of Brookline Training High are eagerly talking about the exhibit which they have prepared for the great Jamestown Exposition, they are not at all blind as to the wonderful object lesson it will prove to the fathers and mothers and girls and educators of the country when they can see dresses which the Brookline girls have made for themselves at their own school.

Besides the dresses, the exhibit comprehended a great assortment of art needlework which each pupil designed before she threaded her needle, household linens, household decorative articles and plain sewing.

"THE BRACEBRIDGE DIAMONDS"

CHAPTER XCVI.

Freed.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner.

FRANK'S musings lasted until late at night. Finally he dropped to sleep, only to be awakened by a knock at the door.

He shouted "Come in!" and Hudson entered with Mr. Jawse, the undertaker.

"I hadn't the pleasure of seeing you last night," said he.

"No," Frank answered. "I was a bit done up and went to bed early. Besides, you didn't require me."

"Very true, sir. I didn't, after receiving your instructions. What I was going to say was I didn't screw the coffin down—wasn't in the least necessary, and such warm weather the last few days, too. It is really quite wonderful, and I noticed a pinkish tint, too, on the face of the corpse. It struck me as a bit curious."

"Is that something new in your experience?" Frank asked.

"Well, it has happened before, but very seldom."

"What, then, are your inferences? That the man is not dead?"

"Oh, dear no, sir. He is dead enough. I only thought you might wonder that I had not screwed him down. I thought perhaps you might like to have a last look, and everything being so favorable——"

"Oh, quite so, Mr. Jawse; very much obliged; good morning."

As Frank sat alone an hour later he began to wonder if there could be any hidden meaning in the undertaker's words. His nerves were still "jumpy," and he was quite prepared after the experiences of the past week for anything, no matter how startling.

In the morning he received a telegram from Cleveland saying that the case against him had been dropped, and the judge had exonerated him completely from complicity in the death of the man found in Baroness Slavinsky's trunk.

He spent the morning at his office in New York, but hastened home at noon.

Dick, by arrangement, met him at the station.

"Nothing has happened up at the house, Dick, I suppose?" he said as he leaped into the trap.

"Nothing, except some young foreign woman nosing round and asking questions about the funeral and things."

Lost Opportunity

"Oh, indeed! Did you see her, Dick?"

"No; I wish I had. I might have found out something then. She was rather a flashy sort, I hear."

"Good heavens!" Frank said to himself, "can it have been Suzanne?" adding, aloud: "Did she carry a red parasol, Dick?"

"Just exactly what I was going to say; you took the very words out of my mouth, sir."

Frank ground his teeth with vexation. What an opportunity had been absolutely thrown away. Had it not been for that accursed police court he might by this time have possessed, not merely a clue, but the master key to the whole mystery.

"Anything wrong, sir?" he asked.

"Only this, Dick: If anybody can trace that woman and bring her up to the house to-night there will be $50 waiting for him."

Dick stared open-mouthed at this.

"Do you really mean that?"

"Why should I say so if I did not mean it?"

"Quite right, sir; I beg your pardon."

He was silent for some time; then he looked up.

"I think I'd like to have a try at that job. Shall you want me again to-night?"

"No."

"And would you mind my using the trap?"

"Not in the least."

"Well, hang me, if I don't have that young woman up to the house before 10 o'clock to-night."

"That will please me, Dick."

"All right, sir. I'll do it," and there for the present the matter dropped.

Upon his arrival Frank dined in the same manner as on the evening before. Again he repaired to the library to smoke his pipe, and upon this occasion read the evening papers he had taken the precaution to bring with him.

Frank made a desperate effort to forget all the occurrences of the day, but this last piece of intelligence with regard to a foreign woman with a red parasol, and who could be none other than Suzanne, perturbed him not a little. What did this visit to the Bracebridge home portend? Could it have been the outcome of that rendezvous with Baron Slavinsky at the cafe in New York? If so, to what end? Would Dick be successful in his quest? He doubted it very much. However, he waited until 10 o'clock, and then until 11, and at midnight gave it up.

Sleep quickly came, and with it oblivion for a time. Then an awful dream came. Frank was vaguely conscious in the dream that it was but a dream, and made strenuous efforts to awake and shake off the horror of it all. But it was of no avail. He had to go through it to the bitter end.

Sees Visions

The scene of the tragedy was unrecognizable, merely a vast desolate space, bounded by the horizon on every side. In the centre of this great desolation there were one open grave, a man in a coffin and himself. The dead man and himself were there alone.

He knew that no living thing existed within a thousand miles of them, and that it was his grim and set purpose to bury this man. But suddenly he burst the lid of the coffin at the bottom of the grave, crawled out and, clambering up to where Frank stood, professed to be his cousin Reginald.

DANGER IN SECRET COURTSHIPS

THAT "the course of true love never did run smooth" is a popular belief. But it is a great pity that the dangers and pitfalls of clandestine courtships and secret engagements are not made the subject of a proverb.

When two people become engaged or marry one another sub rosa the experiment usually turns out badly. If a man comes to a girl and says "I love you and want to marry you, but it must be kept quiet," there is something wrong somewhere. "I could not love thee, dear, so well, loved I not honor more" is a sentiment girls should bear in mind if a man asks them to become engaged without announcing the fact.

A clandestine courtship or secret marriage must be accompanied by deceit, subterfuge and untruth. And these things do not lay the foundations of happiness. No circumstances or conditions can possibly exist to justify a secret engagement or marriage.

True love creates courage. And a man and woman who really care for one another would shrink from the living lie which each must assume when posing before the world as free or unfettered, when in reality they are bound by an engagement of marriage.

If a couple cannot come out into the open and declare their attachment it is far better to part and say "good-by." There is no luck or happiness to be gained from clandestine love.

Which Section of Greater Boston Has Prettiest Babies?

What Have Mothers to Say About It?

ARE the babies of any one section, taken as a whole, prettier than babies of other cities or towns about Boston? Mothers of Greater Boston are invited to write out their views on this interesting question, giving reasons for their opinions. Letters should be addressed to Editor Home Magazine, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

THE question whether the babies of Dorchester are prettier than those of Cambridge or Somerville has received additional light lately. The argument, indeed, has extended to include almost all the cities and towns of Greater Boston.

In numerous letters written to the Home Magazine Editor mothers [illegible] the contention made originally by a woman who signed her letter "Dorchester Mother," that the babies in Dorchester far surpass in beauty those whose homes are in classic Cambridge or Somerville.

Still, the mothers of Brookline and those of South Boston and Newton and other sections of Greater Boston are not content to let the palm go to Dorchester simply because women in Dorchester have facility in expressing their opinions in writing.

There have been received letters from Dorchester and Cambridge and from other parts of the city, too. The writers who do not live in Dorchester or Cambridge deny that the prettiest babies are to be found in either of those places.

The judgments of those women who do not live in Cambridge or Dorchester have not interfered with the expression of the opinion by the Dorchester and Cambridge mothers that it is in one of these sections of the city that the prettiest baby will be found.

For instance, here is a letter written from Dorchester:

ARE HEALTHIER

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

I quite agree with other Dorchester mothers who have written to the AMERICAN supporting the statements first made by the wise judge of babies who signed herself "Dorchester Mother."

Everyone who has spent any time in Dorchester knows that our babies are as pretty if not prettier than those that live in any other part of Greater Boston.

But the fact about them to which I would like to call particular attention is that as a rule they are far healthier than the babies in other parts of town. Of course beauty follows health.

MRS. R. J. McL.

Dorchester.

From the many letters that have been received by the editor of the Home Magazine the following letter, which is a typical one, is selected. It is from a Cambridge address:

LAUDS CAMBRIDGE BABIES

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

There is something in the atmosphere of Cambridge that makes not only for beauty but for a high order of intelligence. I have been told by a servant who has been employed in several sections of Greater Boston that she has found the babies in Cambridge easier to get along with than those from other parts of the city.

I suppose this is because they begin to notice things so early.

As between Cambridge and Dorchester, Cambridge has more pretty and intelligent babies, although why this is so I do not pretend to say.

Cambridge. MRS. A. G. N.

Here is another letter which may prove interesting in the present strife:

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

In view of the heated argument as to which section of Greater Boston has the prettiest babies, let me refer the mothers of Cambridge and Somerville to yesterday's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. If my eyes deceived me not, three of the five prize winning babies selected by your eminent judges came from Dorchester. Isn't this pretty good proof?

Dorchester. W. E. P.

The BOSTON AMERICAN will be glad to hear from mothers whose views are similar or opposed to those which have been given. Write out your views on this interesting question and mail them to Editor Home Magazine, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

THE best pieces should be cut from old tablecloths and made into squares, carefully hemstitched to make them look neat. These squares do excellently to spread over the tablecloth where the meat-dish stands, as the carver is apt to soil the part of the tablecloth around the dish. These squares prevent this, and when used the cloth will last twice as long as usual.

* * *

To keep stockings in good order, and to have them last twice as long, wash them at home. Have clean lukewarm water and good white soap, and do not let them lie in the water. Rinse, and hang up to dry before a fire as quickly as possible, and never iron them. And always wash bleached stockings separate from white or pale-colored ones, and never wear a pair too long without changing.

* * *

Gas burners, like other things, are apt to get dirty. Very often there is quite a little collection of rubbish on them, and if this is cleared away the improvement in the light is very noticeable.

* * *

Practice walking, balancing a basket or pail with water on your head. This exercise will tend to give you an upright and dignified carriage. Regular dumb-bell practice is, of course, excellent.

15,000 JOBS BEGGING? IDEA ABSURD-DAVIS

Associate Director of Civic Service Doubts Figures of Head of State Bureau.

'SOME HAVE TRIED IN VAIN'

There are over 15,000 positions for young men and women within the confines of Greater Boston for which it is practically impossible to find applicants.

Such is the astounding statement made by Walter Lincoln Sears, superintendent of the State Free Employment Bureau, in an address at the housewarming of the Associated Charities, No. 98 Roxbury street. Five thousand of these positions, strange to say, he says, are for boys between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years; 5,000 more are for women in restaurants, hotels or for domestics at good wages; 5,000 are for girls from sixteen to twenty-five years of age at factory work in the metropolitan district, and the remainder are for able-bodied men to serve as farm-hands.

On reading these figures the question arises: Does the demand for unskilled labor exceed the supply, or is it that the immigrant class or floating population is averse to work of this sort?

Settlement workers and others who are familiar with labor conditions among the poor, and who discussed the figures for the BOSTON AMERICAN, are divided on the question. Philip Davis, associate director of the Civic Service House, special truant officer and former superintendent of the employment bureau of the Federation of Jewish Charities, openly takes issue with Superintendent Sears, and declares that his figures are not founded upon fact.

"An Attack on Immigrants."

"If we take Mr. Sear's figures literally, it is an indirect attack upon the immigrant classes, since they comprise a large majority of those who seek the assistance of the State bureau in obtaining employment. It would indicate either that there were no immigrants idle or that they were averse to hard work. Such is not the case" says Mr. Davis.

"Taking first, domestic work," continued Mr. Davis, "I will admit that there may be some basis for the large number of situations which remain to be filled. And there is a reason. Domestic work is distinctly repugnant even to the immigrant women. They would much prefer to spend ten or twelve hours a day in a factory or mill working hard and claim their independence when the day's work is done, rather than be ever subject to the whims and caprices of mistresses. To them it is almost akin to servitude.

"When it is said that there are 5000 positions for boys between the ages of fourteen to eighteen years at wages ranging from $3 to $6 per week, to me the figures seem incredible.

"As for the immigrant," continued Mr. Davis, "I know that there are 5,000 able-bodied, energetic, many of them skilled, immigrants, who are only too glad to get work at anything or in any place and cannot.

"Hard to Get Work for Boys."

Justice Frank Leveroni, of the Juvenile Court and vice-president of the Benevolent Aid society, which maintains an employment bureau subsidized by the Italian government, takes issue with Mr. Sears, not only in the matter of figures, which he avers are not conservative, but he maintains that the work of the bureau is not of wide enough scope to reach the immigrant classes, which it is mostly intended to benefit.

"Why, when I hear that there are 5,000 positions for boys, between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years, which cannot be filled, it seems strange to me that the officials do not get into correspondence with those connected with the Juvenile Court. Many times we have boys up before the court for slight misdemeanors, nothing criminal; but they are sometimes obliged to serve a slight probationary period. We have experienced the greatest difficulty in securing many of these lads positions.

"About ablebodied men, there is a question. There are to my personal knowledge some 2,000 Italians who would readily grasp the opportunity to get work as farm hands, such situations as the bureau seems unable to fill.

"The question arises, why do they not seek the assistance of the State Bureau? The answer is, because they are not aware of its existence, or if they do by some chance find the office, there is nobody there who can talk their language or understand them. The State Free Employment Bureau is an excellent institution, but it is not conducted in a manner to appeal to the immigrant classes, which it is intended chiefly to benefit.

"Italian immigrants are constantly coming to me seeking positions, and in my experience with the employment bureaus I have rarely found that there was a dearth of labor to meet the demand. The real solution of the immigrant problem will come when the influx is diffused from the seaport cities to situations in the country, and that is what I thought was to be the prime province of the State Bureau when established."

Miss L. C. Hayes, agent for immigrant Irish girls for the Charitable Irish Society and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, is of the opinion that the demand for domestics far exceeds the supply and that the statistics of Mr. Sears, as far as they refer to female labor, are correct. Most of the girls who come over from Ireland are already assured of work before their arrival. Of the thousands of Irish girls who landed on these shores last year, all but five were assured of work or had excellent prospects.

"The demand for unskilled labor was never as heavy as it is at present," says Max Mitchell of the Associated Charities. "I can readily see that these statistics cannot be greatly exaggerated."

HELD FOR KILLING MAN SHE LOVED

Mrs. Dora McDonald, wife of well-known Chicago politician, awaiting trial for the murder of young artist with whom she was infatuated.

M'DONALD TO STAND BY WIFE HELD AS SLAYER

Chicago Millionaire Denounces as False the Story That He Would Not Aid Her Defence.

ABANDONS INSANITY PLEA

CHICAGO, April 15.—M. C. McDonald, the millionaire husband of Mrs. Dora McDonald, who is locked up in the county jail awaiting trial for the murder of Webster Guerin in his studio last month, announced to-day that the rumors which have been in circulation to the effect that he would not give his wife financial help in fighting her case were untrue.

"I have heard," he said, "that it has been reported that I am willing to pay for Mrs. McDonald's care in a sanatorium, but that I am not willing to spend money upon her defence in court. I am willing to spend the last cent I have to clear her of this charge of murder which has been brought against her.

Defence in Lawyers' Hands.

"The defence of insanity has not been chosen yet. The matter of the defence is in the hands of my lawyers. All I can do is to supply what money is needed and to hope that all will come out well."

McDonald said that his wife's health and strength, which were wreck by the tragedy, have increased slowly since she was locked up in the county jail. She has spent most of her time in the jail hospital. The jail physicians said to-day that, physically, she is able to stand the strain of a trial.

Her husband has abandoned his efforts to get her committed to an insane asylum. With his lawyers, A. S. Trude and Edward Maher, he is concentrating his efforts upon presenting a good defence for her in the criminal court.

Important Murder Trial.

The case, because of the far-reaching revelations of one sort and another which will be made before it is ended, is looked upon here as one of the most important murder cases that has developed in Cook county.

McDonald, who did not know that his wife was in love with Guerin, the artist, until he found that she had killed him, says that he expects that many disagreeable disclosures will be made, but that he can stand anything except that his wife be found guilty of murder.

AGED 77, RECEIVES 99-YEAR SENTENCE

NEWKIRK, Okla., April 15.—Woodson S. Morris, seventy-seven years old, was sentenced to ninety-nine years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for the murder of W. P. Cassidy and son in a quarrel over rent. He was convicted on the charge of killing the boy.

HAYMARKET JUROR COMMITS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, April 15.—Principal James H. Brayton of the Raymond Public School committed suicide by shooting. Illness is believed to have been the cause. He was a member of the jury which convicted the Haymarket anarchists in 1887.

FIGHT MOTHS AT EVERY POINT SAYS KIRKLAND

Wants Authority to Battle with Pests in Towns That Do Nothing Themselves.

MUST DO THOROUGH JOB

"We are just starting our third year's campaign against the gypsy and browntail moth," State Superintendent Kirkland declared to-day, "and we need help and co-operation.

"One hundred and forty-two towns and cities of Massachusetts, including Boston, are afflicted.

"We cleared over 8,000 miles of streets last year and revealed a most alarming state of affairs. The State is called upon to wage a most vigorous fight from one end of the infected district to the other, if the pest is to be suppressed.

"Only a concerted campaign can stamp out the evil. Many towns have failed to take any action at all and have rendered nugatory much that has been accomplished elsewhere.

"A suitable appropriation should be made by the State for the uninterrupted continuation of the work for the next three years and the superintendent should be given authority to prosecute the work of extermination in cities and towns that have failed to do anything themselves, the expense of this work to be charged against them and collected as are other State taxes."

The complete list of affected cities and towns infested by the gypsy moth January 7, 1907, is given below:

Abington, Acton, Amesbury, Andover, Arlington, Ashland, Avon, Ayer, Barnstable, Bedford, Belmont, Beverly, Billerica, Boston, Bourne, Boxboro, Boxford, Braintree, Bridgewater, Brockton, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Carlisle, Carver, Chelmsford, Chelsea, Cohasset, Concord, Danvers, Dedham, Dover, Dracut, Duxbury, East Bridgewater, Easton, Essex, Everett, Framingham, Georgetown, Gloucester, Groton, Groveland, Halifax, Hamilton, Hanover, Hanson, Harvard, Haverhill, Hingham, Holbrook, Holliston, Hopkintown, Hudson, Hull, Hyde Park, Ipswich, Kingston, Lakeville Lawrence, Lexington, Lincoln, Littleton, Lowell, Lynn, Lynnfield, Malden, Manchester, Marblehead, Marlborough, Marshfield, Maynard, Marblehead, Marlboro, Marshfield, Maythuen, Middleboro, Middleton, Millis, Milton, Nahant, Natick, Needham, Newbury, Newburyport, Newton, North Andover, North Reading, Norwell, Norwood, Orleans, Peabody, Pembroke, Plymouth, Plympton, Quincy, Randolph, Raynham, Reading, Revere, Rockland, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Saugus, Sandwich, Scituate, Sherborn, Somerville, Southboro, Stoneham, Stoughton, Stow, Sudbury, Swampscott, Tewksbury, Topsfield, Tyngsboro, Wakefield, Waltham, Wareham, Watertown, Wayland, Wellesley, Wenham, Westboro, West Bridgewater, Westford, West Newbury, Weston, Westwood, Weymouth, Whitman, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop, Woburn and Yarmouth.

FITCHBURG, April 15.—To-morrow night a strenuous move will be made by Dog Constable Frank J. Garrity to have the Board of Aldermen reissue the dog muzzling order. Six mad dogs have been killed, nine are in quarantine, and fifteen other dogs are suffering from mad dog bites.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY MISSING

Garret Kelly, nineteen years old, a well-known Malden High School athlete, of No. 3 Mt. Vernon park, Malden, has been mysteriously missing from his home since April 2. His parents can give no reason for his disappearance, and a search lasting for many days has been made by the family.

MRS. C. E. FINK

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In this nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value.

This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others."

When women are troubled with Irregularities, Displacements, Ulceration, Inflammation, Backache, Nervous Prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

RAMLEH
TURKISH CIGARETTES

Most smokers prefer mildness in fine cigarettes, if it can be secured without sacrificing the tasty flavor and delicious fragrance of Turkish Tobacco.

That's why you like the mildness of mild cigarettes and the flavor of strong cigarettes—but you seldom find both in one cigarette.

It is because RAMLEH Cigarettes are "tasty" without being heavy and smooth without being too mild, that they suit the taste of smokers of all classes.

You'll probably find RAMLEH the very cigarette you've been looking for. Why not try them to-day?

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—After to-day's game with the Athletics the Pilgrims will leave for Boston, where they open with the Washingtons to-morrow.

Bill Dinneen is the man who will probably be selected to pitch the getaway game for the Boston aggregation, while Eddie Plank may do the firing line stunts for the home talent.

The fifteen men who went on the trip to Rocky Point, R. I., yesterday, where the Providence team was played, returned early this morning, not taking the defeat they were handed very much heart.

The Bostons are now all in good shape and anxious for the arrival of George Huff, who will manage the team. Cy Young has got rather tired of the task he has had as leader, and will be glad when he gets rid of it.

PILGRIMS LOSE TO PROVIDENCE TEAM BY CLOSE SCORE

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, April 15.—Although outbatted and outfielded, the Providence team handed out the same medicine to the Boston Americans that they gave to the Boston Nationals a week ago yesterday, and won, 2 to 1.

Big Ed Barry, the elongated southpaw, who was sold by the Pilgrims to the Clam Diggers, with the exception of the first of the five innings that he twirled, had the Bostons guessing. Cronin, the former Brooklyn pitcher, finished the game.

Pruitt twirled the first five innings for the Bostons and Oberlin the last four.

The Boston's lost because they weren't able to hit opportunely. Seven times they had men on the sacks with a chance to score, but the necessary swat wasn't forthcoming. They had two men left on base in the first, one each in third, fourth, fifth and sixth, two in the eighth and one in the ninth.

In the fourth, with one out, Chadbourne went to first on balls and scored on Abstein's long double to left. An out put Abstein on third, and he scored on Carrigan's passed ball.

Carrigan fanned in the fifth, but Pruitt hit a hot one to Cronin and beat the throw. Chadbourne retired Sullivan at first on a fine play. Collins hit to left centre for two bases, scoring Pruitt.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The Bennings curtain raiser is finished; the overture has been played and the metropolitan stage is set for the great racing drama of 1907. The curtain rises on the big show at Aqueduct to-day, and the star attraction of the interesting programme of the Queens County Jockey Club is the Carter Handicap, in which the best sprinters from the several parts of America are to gallop seven-eighths of a mile over a slow track for a purse of $10,000. The weather promises to be clear, if unseasonably cold, and between 15,000 and 20,000 eager enthusiasts will cheer the winner.

Roseben, the great sprinter of the stable of David Johnson, who won last season's Carter in gallant style from Southern Cross, Mr. Johnson said yesterday, is not to go, but the Carter will be the best affair in the annals of the Queens County Jockey Club just the same. For among the over Saturday nominations sure to start, rain or shine, are Paul Rainey's $45,000 De Mund, one of the crack two-year-olds of last season, who has been licked into shape at Bennings by William Garth; James McCormick's Glorifier, in the pink of condition, fresh from his New Orleans triumphs; F. Burlew's Juggler, better than he has been since his two-year-old season; little Rye, who will bear the silks of Senator Christopher Sullivan and who will be ridden by Miller; Harry Payne Whitney's Brookdale Nymph, who has been working at Aiken, S. C., since the beginning of the year; August Belmont's Don Diego and Okenite, who showed high class at Bennings, and Frank Nolan's Malacca, winner of the First Bennings handicap and the crack colt of his age developed at Washington during the recently finished meeting.

These sturdy runners, with whose form Metropolitan turf folk are more or less familiar, are to meet W. H. Holland's Colonel Jack, the winner of the Ascot Park Derby and a colt the Westerners consider above the average class of the Winter track derby winner; Ampedo, a son of Alvescot, who also made an enviable reputation at Los Angeles; Pretension, whose brilliant victories hereabouts last season attracted widespread attention; Avaunteer, who is to bear the colors of Michael Murphy, a Pennsylvania horseman who enjoys the rare distinction of having beaten the Standard Oil Company at its own game; not to mention the stout gray Oxford; Marster, the recently graduated maiden; Comedienne, Orbicular, Heaslip, etc.

FRANK GOTCH WILL RETIRE

DES MOINES, April 15.—Much interest attaches to the coming wrestling match between Champion Frank Gotch and Fred Beell. The two men have divided honors in the past two matches in which they have participated. Gotch has now announced that he will retire from the wrestling business in June to marry and take up a quiet rural life.

There are those who want to believe that Gotch has chosen Beell as the man upon whom to transfer his honor as champion. Should Gotch lose this coming match there is a large sporting following in Iowa that will demand Beell to meet in the near future "Farmer" Burns of Big Rock, Ia. Though Burns is nearly fifty years old and taught the game to Gotch, who has reached the height and is about to retire, he is nevertheless one of the most active men on the mat.

Hundreds of admirers of Beell maintain that no other man than Gotch can defeat him in a catch-as-catch-can bout.

JOHNSON MADE STARTING JUDGE

Following the idea of the officials of the Metropolitan Driving Club, a committee of fifteen has been appointed on the race and speedway committee, as follows:

The initial move of the committee was to appoint George P. Johnson the starting judge for the year, the position he filled so satisfactorily during the sleighing and last season.

With the proposed speedway parade May 8, the opening of the season's matinees, interclub matinees with Dorchester Driving Club, the big intercity two days matinee to which all driving clubs in New England are to be invited, it is safe to say that the entire fifteen members on the committee will find plenty to keep them busy.

HICKEY WILL MANAGE WARE

William Hickey of Dorchester has accepted the position as manager of the strong Ware, Mass., baseball club, and intends to have the town represented by one of the strongest teams in the eastern part of the State this season.

Hickey is a well known baseball enthusiast of Dorchester having played third base for Dorchester High, Dorchester and Wellingtons. Last season he was a member of the North Attleboros, where he put up a star game. He managed the Dorchester High Alumni basket ball team last Winter with great success. It is expected that as manager of the Ware team a number of Dorchester boys will be seen in the line-up.

BIG DORCHESTER GAME.

Dorchester fans are looking forward with much interest to the opening game at the Dunbar avenue grounds on April 19th, afternoon, when Newtowne Club plays Dorchester. Newtowne has a very fast team this year and the Dorchester aggregation certainly looks good on paper. Clarkson will pitch for the Cambridge team and Crowley for Dorchester. John O'Reilly will umpire.

EACH TEAM ALLOWED 12 MEN.

The Boston Suburban Basebal League held a meeting last night and decided that twelve players would be allowed each team. Prizes will be given to the best individual batter.

LEAGUE SERIES OPENS FRIDAY

This week marks the opening of the Interscholastic League series, with Dorchester High and English High slated to next Friday morning. That Dorchester High fears the wearers of the blue and blue is evident by the former's action in not having the game figure in the Boston High School League, which has been the custom since these schools have been members of both leagues.

Philadelphian Insists On Guarantee of a $10,000 Purse

O'BRIEN-BURNS BOUT MAY FALL THROUGH

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—There's a tingle in the Burns-O'Brien fight, and it will take some unravelling. From some one who is very, very close to Jack O'Brien, it is learned that the purse of $30,000 with which McCarey of Los Angeles was supposed to outbid the Rhyolite $25,000 several months ago is a mere chimera and that the only real money at issue is a sum of $10,000, which O'Brien insists shall be posted as a guarantee that his share of the gate receipts will not be less than that amount.

O'Brien, who was in San Francisco a day or two ago, wherever he may be now, said that McCarey was to have posted this $10,000 on March 18.

"He hasn't done so, or he would have warned me," said Jack. "Until the $10,000 goes up I will keep away from Los Angeles as I have other fish to fry, and McCarey needn't think he is going to get me to box Burns on a percentage basis without any guarantee."

From Los Angeles comes word that McCarey denies having promised to post $10,000 on March 18, or at any other time. In delivering himself thusly, McCarey, without noticing it may be, is knocking the props from under his contention that there is a $30,000 purse at stake, for the tyro in matters pugilistic, knows that promoters who offer prizes of that amount have to place some, if not all, of the purse in safe-keeping somewhere.

As the matter stands McCarey insists that the match is for a $30,000 purse and that the fighters are to take his word for it.

O'Brien says that the match, so far as he is concerned, is for a guaranteed sum of $10,000, and as much more as he can get by the percentage route. Maybe in a day or two when the matter in dispute is threshed out thoroughly by wire, we will hear that it was a misunderstanding and that the contest will take place on time. But whether it will be for $30,000 or less or more, we will never know.

Offered Match with Moir.

O'Brien, according to report, speaks quite frankly when arguing that it would be poor business for him to fight Burns for a bare percent. He says that having boxed Burns once, the gilt is off the gingerbread, and it is hard to tell whether the public really wants to see Tommy and himself in action again. The fact that the articles call for twenty rounds, the same as before, will lead many to expect another draw, says Jack. If this second match were to be to a finish it would be different.

O'Brien has been offered a match with Gunner Moir, the same to take place in London in the Autumn, in connection with Billy Nolan's grand international passage at arms, in which American pugilists will be pitted against Britons.

Up to date Nolan has been quite tactful in making his arrangements for the big tourney across the pond, being fearful that if too much were said about his plans, some unkind person might remark: "No wonder they are avoiding Gans."

The scheme, as far as can be learned, is as follows:

A rich Englishman, with sporting instincts, is behind Nolan and the series of Queensbury contests will be held at Olympia, the Madison Square Garden of London, in August next. Nolan, who came across from England to sign up men for the tourney told such as he placed himself in touch with, that he wanted four championship events.

After canvassing the situation he decided upon the following programme: Jimmy Walsh vs. Digger Stanly, Abe Attell vs. Joe Bowker, Battling Nelson vs. Johnny Summers and Sam Langford vs. Gunner Moir.

After thinking matters over Nolan decided he could improve upon the heavyweight card and invited O'Brien to take the place of Langford. O'Brien rather likes idea and will be among the Nolan voyagers probably when the American Queensberry specialists set out for England in July.

Bill Squires, the Australian champion, will be here in a few days. He said in an interview at Honolulu, that he wanted to begin his American career with a match with the winner of the Burns-O'Brien fight and that he would post $5,000 with the writer on arrival, the same to go as either forfeit or side bet. It is his intention to be at the ringside in Los Angeles if Burns and O'Brien meet.

Squires May Meet Burns.

Should the Burns-O'Brien match fall through it is highly probable that Squires and Burns will be matched to fight at Colma on Decoration Day. Jim Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter who sent Nelson and Britt together at Colma, has been working on the Squires-Burns contest for several weeks. Burns started the ball by writing to Coffroth and asking him to arrange the affair. In replying Coffroth reminded Burns that he was already matched with O'Brien and to this Tommy sent answer: "You go ahead and get Squires for me. I'll whip O'Brien surely and will be ready to box Squires a few weeks later."

Coffroth says: "I think a Squires-Burns match would be a big card, even though it should happen that O'Brien and Burns boxed another draw. You see, Squires and Burns are built on the same lines and each of them is the determined, rushing fighter. I don't know of anyone among American heavyweights better fitted to give the Australian a thorough tryout and for that reason I am looking forward to bringing the men together. Of course, I can't say that I have the match cinched. Burns has told me to go ahead and make arrangements, but Squires will have something to say on the subject when he arrives. I don't expect that the Australian will throw any obstacles in the way of a meeting though."

"But if O'Brien should defeat Burns?" was asked of Coffroth.

"That is something I haven't allowed for," said Coffroth, with a smile.

This is tantamount to saying that he believes Burns will won from O'Brien if they meet again.

"Please state for me that no matter what others think of my ring qualifications I will be very much to the fore when it comes to me to select an opponent for Squires," said Jack O'Brien. "I am still on the hook and the match making department which I preside over personally is as active as ever. Like every other fighter, I believe in making goods terms and if my proposals are entertained, who knows but I may meet Burns at Los Angeles, Squires at whatever place the best inducements offer, and then make the journey with Nolan and tackle Gunner Moir, the English heavyweight champion.

From this it may be inferred that Squires will get right down to business soon after he steps here.

NO CLIMB THIS YEAR UP DEAD HORSE HILL

BY J. C. KERRISON.

After a stormy session that lasted well into the early hours of Sunday morning the board of governors of the Worcester Automobile Club decided not to hold the annual Dead Horse Hill climb this Summer. The meeting was held in the automobile headquarters building, No. 44 Front street, and was intensely interesting from start to finish.

For the past two years the "Dead Horse Hill" climb has been held on the celebrated slope that leads from the city proper into the neighboring town of Leicester. The course is remarkably smooth and straight, and the incline is of sufficient altitude to give any and all grades and makes of cars a good test. To automobilists in this section the climb is on a par with the Glidden tour in the matter of importance. Autoists throughout New England have interested themselves in the climb, and to be even entered in the several events is in itself considered an honor, and to successfully pass its tests is an additional honor sought by motor enthusiasts all over the country.

The action of the board of governors does not come as a complete surprise to those who were on the inside of the local auto situation. The action of the people in general who attended the contest last Summer influenced the decree that was passed out last night.

At that climb the roadway was roped off and a police detail was posted to keep the spectators back out of the course. A charge of twenty-five cents per capita was made to those who wished to view the tests from points of vantage along the mile drive, and a goodly sum was thus realized to help defray expenses of the climb. Many people refused to pay the admission price, claiming that they could walk along the speed course if they so desired, as it was a public highway and not a drive for the chug-chugs alone. The guide ropes were pulled down and numbers of people romped on to the course, much to the inconvenience of the chauffeurs and officials of the climb. The officials of the climb and members of the club in general expressed themselves as displeased with the action of the people who thus broke through the ropes, and it was even then predicted that the last climb had been held.

Charles E. Duryea, who is considered one of the greatest gas engine men in America and whose car won the first two races held in this country, has been made consulting engineer for the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association, which now consists of forty-one of the largest makers.

Mr. Duryea began to make gas engines in 1886; started making automobiles in 1891 and was selling cars in 1895. The Duryea wagon won the Times-Herald race in Chicago and the Cosmopolitan race in New York.

It was the Duryea wagon that won the first English event, November 14, 1896, when it travelled fifty-two miles and defeated all the fast foreign cars by more than an hour. A few months later it finished second in the Belgian race.

Figures compiled by the office of public roads at Washington show that in 1904 the State of Ohio had 89,439 miles of public roads. Of this mileage 16,159 miles were surfaced with gravel, 7,160½ miles with stone, 95¼ miles with brick, 31¼ miles with gravel macadam, 13½ miles with bituminous macadam and 3 miles with asphalt, making in all 23,462¼ miles of improved roads. The figures show that 33.7 per cent. of the roads have been improved. By comparing the total road mileage with the area of the State it appears there were 1.79 miles of public road per square mile of area. A comparison of mileage with population shows that there was one mile of road to every 59 inhabitants and one mile of improved road to every 177 inhabitants. During 1904 $5,706,083.61 was expended by counties and townships in road improvement work.

With two days rest the Doves and the Trolley Dodgers will endeavor to get into the swing of the game once more at the South End grounds this afternoon for the last time of the present series.

It was not much of a series as far as it went with two games played out of the four scheduled, but owing to the avariciousness of the League magnates who demand that 154 games be played in a season it was necessary to start the games before the Winter season had departed.

It will be disappointing to Patsey Donovan if he fails to get away with at least one of the two games played here, considering what he has been up against in the way of weather disturbances. The Lawrence boy has a big following who wish him well and there is likely to be something doing when his boys get the cue from him that they must win or get back home under cover of darkness.

Nothing speaks better for the real stability of the present Boston team than the fact that it beat the Dodgers in the first game after the latter had just finished up a brilliant preliminary season and came up North with flags flying and big puffs in the papers that failed to have any effect on the local athletes who only a week ago got trimmed by Duffy's Providence team which had only played one game before the meeting. Such is the peculiarity of baseball and makes it fascinating.

The chances look bad for the visitors to-day with "Jeff" Pfeffer working on the slab, as the tall pitcher is going his best gait. Charley Rucker, the new cub, looks good to Donovan, but he will have one of his veterans handy for he wants this contest to take home with him.

THE TRUTH Should Be Known

No End to the Testimony

People Want Their Experience Made Public or the Benefit of Others

Mr. Robert C. Mains
72 Market St., Amesbury, Mass.

Mr. Mains is well known in Amesbury, having lived there seven years. He is a wood worker and carriage builder. He has a wife and family, and will tell nothing but the truth about his cure. He says: "I consulted Dr. Joseph Grady, the Boston specialist, about my case, and I was amazed at the rapidity with which he diagnosed it and further added that he could completely cure me. I suffered for

Four Long Years

with a large, open sore on my right forearm, just in front of the elbow joint. This caused me intense pain and interfered considerably with my work on account of being right-handed. I was under the care of one physician for two years, and was treated by others. I consulted one physician, who stated that the only treatment for my case was

A Surgical Operation

"Not wishing the knife used, and hearing about Dr. Joseph Grady's treatment by absorption, I took his treatment. I commenced a course of treatment with him about Feb. 1st, and from the first dose of medicine I seemed to derive benefit. It was but a short time when the sore completely healed. To-day it is perfectly cured, and I eat and sleep like a child, and am again enjoying perfect health. I give this testimonial and will be glad to answer any letters of inquiry in regard to my case or from persons calling on me."

Mr. Fred Arvidson
Avon, Mass.

Tells a remarkable story in regard to his case. He is employed by the Geo. E. Keith Co. of Campello, manufacturers of the "Walk Over" shoe, and employed at No. 1 factory. He says: "I have been treated by Dr. Joseph Grady, and I am well pleased in every way with the results obtained. I most cheerfully recommend him as a physician of great ability. He has certainly done wonders in my case."

Mrs. C. "cured of cancer of the breast." This lady's full name and address will be cheerfully given to all who call. The above statements are all facts and can be verified. These patients do not live 1,000 miles away. They are right here among us, almost at your very door.

NEWS OF LABOR.

At a meeting of representatives of 5,000 city employes in Wells Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon, steps were taken toward the formation of a State organization.

The crafts represented were Bridge Tenders' Union, Lamplighters' Union, Public Grounds Department, Sewer Department Union No. 9,588, Paving Department Union No. 6,751, Water Works Department Union No. 5,360, all of Boston; City Men's Union No. 11,151, Malden; City Men's Union No. 580, Medford; City Men's Union No. 9,105, Brockton; City Men's Union No. 8,217, Malden; City Men's Union No. 11,983, Somerville; City Men's Union No. 8,279, Cambirgde; City Men's Union No. 12,280, Newton; Worcester City Men's Union, Sewer Men's Union No. 12,231, Cambridge.

It was decided that another meeting be held before the organization is perfected in Wells Memorial Building Sunday, May 5.

The folowing will act as temporary officers: Michael D. Collins of Cambridge, chairman; James J. Gorman of Boston, secretary; John J. Reynolds of Somerville, financial secretary-treasurer.

PLEDGE TEAMSTERS SUPPORT

At the meeting of the Building Trades Council of Boston yesterday afternoon support was pledged to the Boston team drivers who are on strike.

It was reported that the grievance of the paperhangers had been adjusted favorably to the union.

HORSESHOERS EXPECT RAISE.

The Horseshoers' Union yesterday considered its ne wwage scale, which will go into effect May 1. The scale calls for a minimum wage of $19 a week.

It was reported that the employers are generally signing the agreement and no trouble is anticipated.

Joseph Boyle and Daniel Mannix were elected delegates to the State convention of horseshoers in Worcester.

OPPOSE BONUS SYSTEM.

Bay State lodge of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen at its meeting yesterday went on record against the bonus or piece system of payment.

The lodge appointed a committee to draft resolutions to President Roosevelt stating that his reference to Meyer, Heywood and Pettibone was unjust.

MACHINISTS TO ASK INCREASE.

Thirty-five delegates from towns and cities of New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, representing machinists' lodges, met in Wells Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon and planned to make a united effort for a shorter workday and a wage increase for the machinists of New England. Thomas L. Wilson of Washington, international vice-president, addressed the delegates.

LABOR NOTES.

The striking Cloak and Garment Makers' held a mass meeting in Wells Memorial building last night. The officials reported that everything points to final victory for the strikers.

Notices of a mass meeting in the interest of having construction work of some kind, particular of war vessels, done at the Charlestown Navy Yard, in Faneuil Hall, Friday evening, April 26, were issued yesterday from the office of the National League of Employes of Navy Yards, Naval Stations, Arsenals and Gun Factories.

Sanitary and Street Cleaning Departments' Union listened to Cornelius P. Shea, international president; Joseph Forkey, second international vice-president, of New York; Richard W. Garrity, ex-president of Boston Bartenders' Union No. 77, and Peter J. Donahue, ex-president of the Team Drivers' District Council, yesterday.

Final arrangements for the sixth anniversary May 5 were completed at the meeting of Boston Newsboys' Union yesterday.

At the meeting of Bartenders' Union No. 77 in Hollis Hall yesterday it was announced that International President Timothy J. Sullivan expects to address the meeting of the union Sunday, May 26.

Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L.; Dennis D. Driscoll, secretary-treasurer of the State Branch, and James R. Crozier, former president of the State Branch, yesterday addressed the members of Boston Park Department Employes' Union at its meeting in Wells Memorial Hall. A special meeting has been called for Saturday night in Wells Memorial building, when permanent officers will be elected.

Whipping the Piano Trust

The Trust hasn't recovered yet from the terrible body blow we gave it lately, our capturing the 245 new pianos of the Trust's leading makers was a big victory for us. Why—we got in the lot twenty-seven new upright pianos of one of the best known piano makers in the East. These pianos are listed to sell at $450 each. In our swoop of two weeks ago we grabbed them at prices that made the maker, who is in the Trust, wince with pride pain. Early Monday morning we received an offer from this maker of the full retail price on every one of the twenty-seven of his pianos if we would sell all of them to him and none to the public at cut prices. Did we do it? Not so as you would notice it. We threw them all into the sacrifice at prices that proved to the public that we were keeping our faith with the people in our fight. We will give you the advantage of every one of our victories over the Trust and will expect you to investigate our sales and buy your pianos here from us—when we offer you the best makes at prices that you cannot get elsewhere. When we win, you win—Every piano bought here is the swellest kind of a bargain. Come early Monday with your eyes wide open—and see for yourself.

End of the Thaw Trial

It Is Not a Very Encouraging Example of Trial by Jury.

The people of New York City, the big lawyers, the experts, the jury, the judge, have ended the first trial of our first millionaire accused of murder—and the thing is just where it began.

The case was many-sided in its appeals to morbid minds. To begin with, it had in it the "million-dollar element." Wherever a million dollars is involved the American people are interested, whether it be a murder trial, a divorce, a marriage or forgery.

In the second place, all the usual elements that make murders interesting were present—with the single exception of mystery.

There was a very young and extremely good-looking woman in the case. There were the sorrowing families of the man who committed the crime, and of the man who was killed. On both sides women were made to suffer through no fault of their own.

There was the spectacular killing in a public place, and the character of the dead man, with his wide acquaintance and professional reputation.

Such a case has probably not appeared in a murder court in any country before.

The trial ends as it began. The taxpayers have spent tens of thousands of dollars. At least a hundred thousand dollars, probably a great deal more.

There is no knowing, of course, what the family of the accused man have spent—hundreds of thousands certainly.

The community has looked on while a jury of twelve "good men and true" have been taken back and forth, as though they were criminals eager for a chance to ply their trade.

Eight policemen were appointed to watch them, walk with them, and, presumably, to prevent bribery. It was a queer sight in a country where United States Senators may talk to anybody in the lobby, WITH NOT EVEN ONE POLICEMAN to make sure that they don't sell their votes.

The community in its opinions has been widely divided. But the general opinion undoubtedly has been this:

A pretty bad man shot a worse man. A negatively worthless creature destroyed the life of an actively dangerous individual. Some believed that Thaw should be punished, some believed that he should not be punished.

Seven of the jurymen, it is said, voted to send Thaw to the electric chair. Yet it is not probable that any one of these men who listened to the evidence would vote to bring Stanford White out of his grave and start him in active life again, if it were possible.

The people of a big city who recently elected a District Attorney with the hope and on the promise that he would DEVOTE ALL HIS ENERGIES TO PROTECTING THEIR RIGHTS, saw him busy, really in earnest, in a MURDER case.

Those who observed how cold and indifferent Mr. Jerome was where life insurance matters were involved with the rights of widows and orphans were interested to behold his extreme agitation and devotion in this murder trial. They saw the tears roll from his eyes as he was describing the wrongs of Stanford White, NOT THE WRONGS OF THE THOUSANDS OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN ROBBED AND CHEATED BY INSURANCE THIEVES.

While they were glad, apparently, to see that it was possible for their District Attorney to take an interest in SOME department of their business, they have doubtless made a note for future reference that if they want a man to work hard to vindicate a dead Stanford White they can find him in Jerome. And if they want a man to take the same kind of an interest in the rights of ordinary people alive, they will have to find somebody else.

A sad feature of this case is the fact that it will probably be tried all over again. Once more, presumably, the prisons will be full of ordinary criminals, murderers, burglars and others THAT, LACKING MILLIONS IN CASH, ARE UNINTERESTING. These will wait while Justice concentrates her mind on a repetition of the Thaw farce.

It is not probable, however, that any striking event in civilized life is entirely without its valuable meaning and lesson.

Certainly, the Thaw trial teaches us that we need to improve our methods of administering justice, AT LEAST WHERE RICH MEN ARE CONCERNED, AND WHERE LAWYERS HAVE A CHANCE TO STAND IN THE LIMELIGHT.

We have learned that the EQUALITY which the old Americans tried to establish is still a hopeful dream. Even in the murderer's cell there is no equality.

When a million dollars speaks at Washington it gets very respectful attention.

And WHEN A MILLION DOLLARS PULLS THE TRIGGER OF A PISTOL the report is louder than any other noise in the country at the time.

To the classic speech of America this trial has added three expressions that will be heard each second until replaced by others newer and even more pleasing.

These Thaw trial additions to the language are:

"Dementia Americana."

"Brain storm."

"Pie-faced mutt."

As these three choice expressions cost the taxpayers thirty-three thousand dollars each, they may be said to be expensive, even for rich New York City.

The Thaw trial, the depths of brutality that it revealed, the brutal interest that it excited, all prove to us at least—what we might have known without any proof—that the world is not civilized, that the old killing and brutality are still the most interesting possible featurs of it.

Improving on the Massachusetts Ballot Law

Mr. Curley Has a Patriotic Bill to Keep Independent Candidates off the Ticket, IN BOSTON

The Hon. Thomas F. Curley, who was once expelled from the Massachusetts Legislature, has returned to it in a time when men of his heroic character and statesmanlike mould find more congenial society under the dome than they did in the cruel days of 1904.

Mr. Curley has succeeded in getting through the Senate a bill which, if enacted into law, would make it impossible for independent candidates to obtain signatures to their nomination papers.

Read the text. It is very short:

> Section 1. In Boston, it shall be unlawful for any person participating in a caucus for the nomination of candidates for public office to be voted for at the next State election or at the next municipal election, as the case may be, to sign a nomination paper for a candidate to be voted for at such election; and the signature of such a person, if affixed to such nomination paper, shall be invalid, and of no effect.
>
> Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Such a simple proposition! The wonder is that some of the leaders hadn't thought of the bill long ago and jammed it through without a roll-call.

We shall be greatly disappointed if the House doesn't pass it with almost as much celerity as it sent the labor legislation along for action by the next General Court.

The Curley bill is entirely in keeping with the character and traditions of the present House leaders.

Pass it, by all means! It will be one more star in the crown of the Legislature of 1907.

Not Just the Same

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

NOT quite the same the Springtime seems to me,
Since that sad season, when in separate ways
Our paths diverged. There are no more such days
As dawned for us in that lost time when we
Dwelt in the realm of dreams, illusive dreams;
Spring may be just as fair now, but it seems
Not quite the same.

Not quite the same in life, since we two parted,
Knowing it best to go our ways alone.
Fair measures of success we both have known,
And pleasant hours; and yet something departed
Which gold, nor fame, nor anything we win
Can all replace. And either life has been
Not quite the same.

Love is not quite the same, although each heart
Has formed new ties that are both sweet and true;
But that wild rapture, which of old we knew,
Seems to have been a something set apart
With that lost dream. There is no passion now,
Mixed with the later love, which seems, somehow,
Not quite the same.

Not quite the same am I. My inner being
Reasons and knows that all is for the best.
Yet vague regrets stir always in my breast
As my soul's eyes turn sadly backward, seeing
The vanished self, that ever more must be
This side of what we call eternity
Not quite the same.

Dinkelspiel on Gentle Spring

HOME LATELY.

MEIN Lieber Looey: I luff to see der approachment of Spring, Looey, because it vas der vun season of der year ven der vorld gets young again, und der song birds begin to sing in der trees und all Nature vas fair to look upon, mit der eggsception dot most of it vas going around in disinfectants.

It is der time of year, Looey, of vich der poet speaks it so pleasantly, dus:

"In der Spring der young man fancies
He can took his voolens off,
Und next day he's at der drug store
Buying someding for dot cough."

Und how grand it is, Looey, to lif in dis beautiful climate, vich der Veather Booro picks up ouid of der discard und gifs to der patient taxpayers in dis section of der universe, yet.

How sveet it is to vake early on a Springtime morning und bet two dollars mit yourself vedder vill you haf to vear your imitation dogskin ofercoat to keep der cold ouid, or a cabbage leaf ofer der koko to keep avay der sunstroke.

It is der uncertainment of der Springtime vich makes it so luffable, Looey.

In der morning, mit der bright sun making sveet reflections on our russet gloves, ve valk fort' from our humble homes, und all der air is soft und bammy, und ve vas full mit der choy of lifing, but before ve trafel two blocks comes a snow storm ouid of der frozen North, und vile ve run for shelter der dye runs ouid of our blue necktie und a great bitterness comes ofer us because our low-neck shoes haf let der slush in among der open-face socks vich hides our blushing ankles.

As der ancient poet expressed it so contemptuously, dus:

"In der Spring der young man fancies
Dot his blood is full mit cherms,
So mit sulphur und molasses
Den he brings dose cherms to terms!"

I hat much more to speak abouid der luffly Springtime, Looey, but vile ouid on der pizazza enchoying my health I vas rendered speechless by a cold vich I receifed in der head.

Spring is a fine idea, Looey, but you took your father's advice und vear your ofercoat till der Fourth of Chuly burns it off mit der firecrackers, und den vile udders vas sneezing you vill be sneezeless.

Yours mit luff.
D. DINKELSPIEL.
